Methourne, 1st January, 1870.

GENTIFMEN,—Believing that, from the largely increased quantity of live stock passing through the Methourne market, there is smple room for another firm of salesmen, we have COMMENCED BUSINESS as SHEEP and CATILE SALESMEN and Station Agents, under the style of Peck, Hudson, and Raynor; and trust that our very long experience in the business will secure to us a fair there of support. Our Mr. Peck has been cattle salesmen to Mesers. Dal. Campbell and Co. for eight years; our Mr. Budson, sheep salesmen for the same firm and for Mesers. Ritershank, Englestone, and Co. for eleven years; and our Mr. Haynor has been upwards of sisteen years in the implyment of Kaye and Butchardt and their successors.

All stock consigned to us for sale will have the personal attention of one of the firm, and every effort will be made on our part to keep down to the lowest possible amount the charges and expenses, and in every way to give satisfaction to those who may favour us with their patronage.

Account sales will be rendered and proceeds paid for all fat stock on the merning after the day of sale.

We are gentlemen, your obedient servants.

Owing to the continued increase of business combined with the result of the application of ready-money principle in buying and selling, J. TURNER, the proprietor of the MARKET CLOTH HALL, is now enabled to supply all goeds throughout the stock at fully 10 per cent. less this year than has hitherto been charged, without in any way compromisting his fame for the superior make, style, and finish of all garments made at the above establishment, the reduction in price being effected by having the greeds manufactured expressly to his own orders, and thereby saving to his customers the amount usually charged by merchants for importing.

J. T. has now on hand the largest and most magnificent stock of woolless in the colony to select from, an inspection of which is respectfully invited. The trade and public supplied with cut lengths or piece at wholesale prices.

All goods are well shrunk before made up.

The most takined cutters in the colony are employed, and perfection is obtained by each having charge of the garment they are most skilful at cutting. The very large business of the Market Cloth Hall has in that respect an advantage that cannot fail to give universal satisfaction.

THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA.

The Cocoa (or Cacao) of Maravilla is the true Theo broma of Linnsua. Cocoa is indigenous to South America, of which Maravilla is a favoured portion. Taylor, Brothers, having secured the exclusive supply of this unrivalled cocoa, have, by the skilful application of their soluble principle and elaborate machinery, produced what is so undensiably the perfection of prepared cocoa, that it has not only secured the preference of homosopaths and cocoadrinkers generally, but many, who had hitherto not found any preparation to suit them, have, after one trial, adopted the Maravilla Cocoa as their constant beverage for breakfast, luncheon, & Cuccess Unprecedent of May 14, 1868.

"A SUCCESS UNPRECEDENTED."

See following Extract from the Globe of May 14, 1868.

"Various importers and manufacturers have attempted to attain a reputation for their prepared Cocoa, but we doubt whether any thorough success had been achieved until Mears. Taylor, Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of 'Maravilla' Cocoa. Adapting their perfect system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroms, they have produced an article which superseds every other cocoa in the market. Entire solubility, a delicate aroms, and a rare concentration of the purest elements of autrition, distinguish the Maravill's Cocoa shove all others. For Homosopaths and invalida we could not recommend a more agreesible or valuable beverage."

Sold in packets only by all Grocers, of whom also may be had Taylor, Brothers' original Homosopathic Cocoa and Soluble Chocolate. Bleam Mills, Brick-lang, London.

DUKING THE RUSSIAN WAR.

DURING THE RUSSIAN WAVE
"STONE FLEET" AT CHARLESTOWN.
It will be remembered that in the Russian War, and in the great struggle between the Federal and Southern States of America, the harbour of Charlestown was blocked up by aftest of sanken vessels, who had afterwards to be blown up by to pedoes before navigation to that port sould be resumed. In order to corney some idea of the wonderful destruction that can be caused by a torpedo,
A VESSEL WILL BE ANCHORED IN BOTANY BAY,

and blown up by MONSTER TORPEDO. THE INTENDED EXPLOSION being got up as much for the instruction of the publicar their annecement, the BLOWING UP OF THE SHIP will be carried out under the supervision of the first scientific gentlemen, who have kindly volunteered their patronage to advance science in the colony.

BOATING PARTIES BEWARE ::
Gentlemen in basts will please at attor thomselves a considerable distance from the VESSEL TO BE BLOWN UP.
The powers of a torpedo are so immense that the fragments of the vessel will ascend to a considerable height, and accidents may thus result from boats being too close TO THE TORPEDO EXPLOSION.

As the vessel will be anchored and sunk some distance from the beach, there can be no possible danger to the aper-tators, who will thus be able to form a good idea of the torpedo explosions in the great Crimean and American civil war.

The Botany Management have purchased A LARGE VESSEL scuttled and sunk. After strashing under the water for a time, it will be BLOWN INTO THE AIR. MONSTER TORPEDO.

THE NEW SYSTEM OF PRIVATE EDUCATIONS FOR YOUNG LADIES.—It has long been felt that heavy school bills are one of the greatest cases of parents. It is the purpose of this prospectus to place within the means of all a school for grift, upon the excellent system of the Public Schools, with all the advantages of the best private schools added.

The strictest attriction will be paid to the deportment of the pupils; and it will be the aim and purpose of the Head Mistress for her pupils to become useful and highly educated women. As from the extremely Moderate Trans, numbers alone can ensure a continuance of the school, the brometers believe and hope that parents will avail themselves of the advantages offered, feeling confident that one quarter's trial will ensure permanent support. The course of inertuction will comprise a therough English education (upon the system of the Public schools), and, with the undermestioned accomplishments, will be included in the one charge:—
French, drawing, culisthesics, singing, reading, and theory of music; painting in Indian ink and water colours, plain sewing, wood work, and was though.

Terms—TWO GUINEAS PER QUARTER.

Classes will be formed for the practice of the pianoforte et one guines per quarterly, in advance.

The two last-mentioned accomplishments are optional; and young lasties not attending the school classes may join them.

Full particulars for resident pupils (the terms for which re inclusive), and references, to be had of the Head Mistres, 165, Devenshire-termor, William-atreet, Sydney, University of Sydney, Housed by the Chancellor, Mr. JOHN KINDOH, M.A., receives as BESI-DENT PUPILS gentlemen attending the University Lectures, or propering for them, or professions, or the University Lectures, or propering for them, or professions, or the Civil Service.

Charles Lawrence was brought before the Court on a warrant charged with having unlawfully descrited his wife, Jane Lawrence. She proved the descrition, but said that if their Worships made an order between the working might receive 5s. a week towards the support of her two children—nhe would ask nothing for between. The defendant agreed to the terms, and an order was made accordingly. Four priceners were remanded.

On the summens papers were twenty-five cases, of which one was dismissed, another was postponed, four vere not proceeding, and in two warrants were granted for the apprehensis of the defendants. Margaret West was fixed 10s., and Laurence Murphy was fixed 20s., for using obscene larguage; and Peter Hancock was fixed 10s. for using words calculated to cause a breach of the peace.

Kleven persons were fixed, in sums varying from 1s. to 10s., for rictons behaviour, allowing cattle to stray, or nog-lecting to have their names and addresses on their drays. As we have said, the *ibut of the English pedestrians was a great failure. Hewitt was nowhere in the short race. Bird figured as unsuccessfully in the half-mile and mile races, and Topley was ingloriously defeated in the walking matches. The public were actually astonished, but the races and Topley was ingloriously defeated in the walking matches. The public were actually astonished, but the race. At first, of course, this was not noticed by the spectators generally, who had not noticed by the spectators generally, who had no means of forming an exact orbinion for themselves, and had, indeed, no idea that snything was wrong. The opening race was of 170 yards. When the time for the heat in which Hewitt, the champion balf-mile runner of the world, was to appear, there was considerable excitement. A rumour was current that the champion was not going to start, but no one could believe it, though his absence from the starting-place until the last moment lent colour to the report. As he trotted down to his place, in a style so different from any of the others, every horly was on the look-out for something with recing; but when the pistol had been fired, and the tunners were appealing over the ground, in the first two heats, had seen the man that started nearest scratch run through his anityonists before more than two-thirds of the ground had been cowred—Hewitt gained not a yard on those who were in inout of him, and though in the last fow yards ha pass of the thorn him when the race counsenced. It would not be easy to describe the reality, that it was something akin to what it would have been had the public been "sold" outright. The unificues of the Englishmen was not then generally known, and the conclusion that meat papele arrived at we, that Hewitt was nothing out of the common at 170 yards whatever he might be at a longer distance. Topley,

Two-mile Handsony Walting Match.—First prize, value 10 guiness; second, value 2 guiness:

Y. Lyali, 90 yards.

This event as finally reduced to a match between Lyali and Woodhouse. Monk and Archer retired in the fifth round. Topley persevered until he had nearly completed the seventil, whee, finding that he lost rather than gained upon the two still left in the roce, he also gave up. There were several capital spurts on the part of Woodhouse, more particularly in the fourth, fifth, sixth, and eighth rounds, but they were as gallantly answered by Lyali, who would not be passed, and ultimately won by about three yards. Time, 16 minutes 5 seconds.

Helf-Mile Handicap Flat Race.—First prize, 10 guiness; second prize, value 2 guiness.

M. Higgins, 16 yards

G. Cronk, 22 yards

Half-way round the second time the only runners in the race were Poynting, Hodgkinson, Cronk, and Higgins, Luyton and Halpin having given up, and Bird being all thehnd. Higgins obtained the lead about two-thirds of the way round, and won by three or four yards. Cronk being a good second. Time, 1 minute 592 seconds.

Use Mile Handicap Flat Race.—First prize, value 10 quiness; second prize, value 2 guiness.

E. Ford, 65 yards.

J. Poyting, 90 yards

M. Halpin, 90 yards

The non-tarters were A. Don, 90 yards; W. E. Riley, 160 yards; J. Regan, 160 yards; and J. Gallaher, 100 yards.

The non-tarters were A. Don, 90 yards was to no better purpose than before. For a short distance in the second isst round be put on a capital spurt, but was unable to diminish the leng distance between hims if and the winners to any appreciable extent. Higgins, who appeared to be running well, was in front towards too chase of the seventh round, but just at the commencement of the latilar reserved and the day have a yard. He was theroughly exhausted when he passed the commencement of the latilar reserved and the day of the commencement of the latilar reserved to Ford and the King, the passed the winning pest, and the control of th

RICHMOND ENIDGE COMPANY.—The half-yearly meeting of the shareholders took place at the Black Hotse Inn, Richmond, on Wednecday last; Mr. James Ascough, J.P., excupied the chair. The directors submitted the report for the half-year, which shewed that the recojute (including a balance of £23 %. 6d.) were £442 4s. 6d., and the expenditure was £341 7s. 6d., leaving a balance of £160 17s., which the directors proposed to carry to the next half-year's account. The report stated that the directors regretted their inability to propose any dividend, as a they had been compelled to expend the large sum of £308 4s. in repairs to the si prouches at the east end of the bridge, necessitated by the great damage done by the floods. They confidently expected, however, next half-year is resume the payment of the usual dividends. A resolution was unanimonally carried that the report be adopted, and printed and circulated amongst the shareholders.

INCLEST—An inquest was held at Catai Creekon Thursday, telr eMr. L. White, coroner, and a jury, on the body of an infant ramed Catherina Bowd. It appeared that the decreased had been left with the great grandmother and continued healthy until a few days ago, when she was selzed with distribute. Decemend had not been sent to her by Dr. Day from Windsor. She died on Wedlerday morning. The jury found that death resulted from natural causes.

"I have always had an impression that our troops on foreign stations were exempted from payment of duties to Government. Imagine my surprise, however, to hear that upon every barrel of petter consumed in the canteen a charge of 18s. is exacted for duty, and that, together with freight, carriage from Kingston, &c., the cost of petter drunk in the canteen is 3s. 10d. per gallon. Our Government should look into this. The high pitee of porter tends to increase the sale of the rum, and as the rumsupplied by the Kingston merchants as of a very inferior quality, the men suffer accordingly, and by the loss of health, increase of crime, and the natural consequences arising from the drinking of bad spirits, and the prohibition (by exorbitant pites) of the supply of wholesome liquors, are made to pay the penalty of their crimes by confinement in guard-room or cells, or sufferings bader the doctor's care in hospital. Not only the liquors is this duty exacted, but I am informed that upon almost every article sold in the canteen some duty is charged. The respective selling prices of a few of the goods sold in the canteen I found to be Captain Rounseville says:—"It began to blow fresh on Saturday night, August 27, and I made all sang for the night. At two o'clock next morning the gale increased; close resfed foresail and trysail, and secured hatches. About three o'clock lost waist and larboard bosts, and heavy seas were constantly sweeping over the decks and filling them with water. Soon found the vessel could not live by lying to, so kept off before the wind, but the foresail soon blew away, the wind having increased to a perfect hurricane. After running for about an hour the man at the wheel become alarmed, and let the vessel come to the wind, and we lost our last boat, the schooner lying deep in the water, but I did not think there was much danger, the vessel being so new and good. I told my wife not to be, alarmed, but she dressed herself and lay down with both children in the betth. I then took an sxe in order to cut away the foremast, as the water had got to the hatches on deck, and the lee rail was under. Went forward and cut the fore riging clear—tried to cut the mast through, but before I could do so the schooner blew entirely over on her side, her masts in the water, and I was washed away. After being knocked around for a few minutes, got to the main rigaing and endeavoured to get to the cabin but aheavy sea came and washed all on deck away. I got hold of the crosstrees on the mainmast, and held on, the sea breaking completely over me. After daylight the gale moderated, and I remained until two o'clock in the afternoon, and then got to the vessel. One man who was with me was washed off and drowned, and the shipkeeper, after getting on board, ast down and soon died. My wife and children I never asw again. After remaining upon the wreck, in the space of eight feet, for eight days and nights, during which time we were without food or watar, myself and four of the crew were taken off by the barque Hartworth, Captain Oxley, of Shield

JANUARY 16TH, 1870. CIVIL RECEONS ASTRONOMICAL MENORANDUM FOR JANUARY 15TH, 1870.

The Sydney Morning Werald.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 15, 1870.

MR COWPER's entrance on public life dates from an early period. When representative institutions were granted, Mr. Cowren early aspired to share in the councils of his all bu native country. His Parliamentary life was, however, interrupted by his active participation in the railway enterprise.

Mr. Cowyer took a conspicuous part in that conflict against transportation which culminated in the Australasian League, and united all the colonies of the continent. the wishes of the people s opped the marmars of disloyalty before they could form themselves into more dangerous expressions of discontent. On the grant of what is called responsible government, Mr. Cowren was at once the leader of his party. A misunder-standing with Sir STUART A. DONALDSON on their right to precedence in public life, led to their permanent separation, and affected the

to their permanent separation, and affected the career of both.

The passage between the appointment of Mr. Cowper to the Cabinet without office and his appearance as Colonial Secretary has been short. A premature disclosure of the probability of this step appears to have hastened it. Instead, however, of entering at once upon the serious business of government, Mr. Cowper has to secure his re-election. Is there really any advantage in this appeal to the constituency? Would it not be far better if, having chosen their representatives, the acceptance of office should not be subject to an appeal to arbiters, upon the whole, having little personal fitness to decide the fate of Ministries. Mr. Cowper will find little change since he left office. The old desk, the old subordinates, the ancient routine, the same questions,—all will meet him at once. We may assume that no delay will be required in political deliberation on the forms of administration. delay will be required in political deliberation on the forms of administration. Mr. Cowper, our readers are aware, has long occupied a position more or less prominent, although his total disappearance in January, 1866, that is for nearly four years, has rendered new comers unfamiliar with his Responsible government was initiated by Sir STUART A. DONALDSON in June, 1856, whose Ministry continued till August, the same year; Mr. Cowper then became Colonial Secretary, having the late Mr. Robert Campberli, Sir Terrece Aubrey Murray, Sir James Martin, and Mr. Alpred J. P. Lutwyche as his colleagues. He, however, gave place to Sir Henry Watson Parker, who resigned on the 7th of September, 1857, when Mr. Cowper again assumed the functions of Colonial Secretary, and wantly with various fortunes and want continued, with various fortunes and many changes in the composition of his Ministry, until the 26th of October, 1859. Mr. WILLIAM FORSTER succeeded in obtaining the office of Colonial Secretary, supported by Mr. SAMUEL, Mr. BLACK, Mr. EAGAR, OI COIONIAI Becretary, supported by Mr.

SAMUEL, Mr. BLACK, Mr. EAGAR,
Mr. EDWARD WISE afterwards Judge
(now deceased), and Sir WILLIAM MANNING, with Mr. JOHN F. HARGRAVE.
On the termination of this Ministry, in March, 1860, Mr. ROBERTION assumed the Prominarchip but Mr. Courant Courant March, 1800, Mr. Charles Cowpen the Premiership, but Mr. Charles Cowpen still continued Colonial Secretary, with his old colleagues. This was only an interim arrangement, for, from the 10th January, 1861, Mr. Cowpen took his seat in the Legislative Assembly as Premier, and con-Legislative Assembly as Premier, and continued in that office, with several changes of his colleagues, till the 6th October, 1863, being defeated by the MARTIN Ministry, who continued until 2nd February, 1865, when Mr. Cowpen again took office as Colonial Secretary, and was supported by Mr. Plunkett, who alone of Mr. MARTIN's colleagues supported his Ministry. There were numerous changes made in the Cabinet consegues supported as Ministry. There were numerous changes made in the Cabinet during this time, which, on 21st January, 1866, gave place to Mr. Marriw and the other gentlemen, who in their turn gave place to Mr. ROBERTSON, who has now resigned his share in the Government in favour of Mr. Cowpen. the Government in favour of Mr. Cowpen. These various changes have taken place, during which Mr. Cowpen has held office, with intervals longer or shorter, from 1856 to 1870. Having passed through these details, which shows how fluctuating, how uncertain, is the tenure of political power, and equally how difficult it is to set aside permanently any able competitor, we may look forward to changes not altogether unlike in the future Parliament.

r with the Bar, and to confer upon them flices for which, according to the then opinion, hey were incompetent. But the accumulation of debt might have had its share—a cause of ruin to all Ministries, against which nothing can protect them. So long as a Government is rich it is powerful. When it becomes embarrassed, it sinks into impotence. It is, however, with a debt of extravgant dimensions that the new Ministry has to combat; and if we hope for their triumphs, it must be by other means than those for which the Government of Mr. Cowpen was formerly distinguished. We, however, do not despair, because if experience did not make mer wiser they must be worse than fools.

Assembly he will hardly fail to remark the changes which have transpired since the day when he quitted it—how much more since he met his party under the New Constitution Of the first Ministry, not one remains in the Of the first Ministry, not one remains in the Assembly. Of the second, Mr. Cowpen himself alone will sit upon the Government side; his only surviving colleague being Mr. MARTIN, and he no longer his political friend. Of the third Ministry not one remains. Of the fourth, including many persons, Sir James Martin and Mr. Flood alone remain in the Assembly, and both are opponents of the Purmira. Of and both are opponents of the Premier. Of the fifth Ministry, there reappear only Mr. Forster and Mr. Samuel. In the sixth Ministry, Mr. Arsold sione! In the seventh, again Mr. Arnold alone! In the eighth Ministry, two only reappear, Sir James Martin and Mr. Poretak one a supporter and the Ministry, two only reappear, Sir James Martin and Mr. Forether, one a supporter and the other an opponent—friends once, friends no longer. In the ninth Ministry, Mr. Saul Sanuel and Mr. Arnold only remain. At this point Mr. Cowper (1866), quitted public life. We see how small a number of those with whom he was alited either support his Government, or assut the Opposition. All that remain of those Ministers who can. All that remain of those Ministers who con tended for power together or apart are Messrs Abnold, Forster, Martin, Samuel, Flood and CowPer-scarcely sufficient in number to form one Cabinet, even if they were united and not, as at present, personal or politica

THE financial question is so sure to occupy the early attention of Parliament, that the returns lately published of the revenue and expanditure of last year are likely to receive special attention. From the figures already published t will be seen that the gross revenue for the year was £2,202,970. Inclusive of what is due from Victoria on the Murray River Customs Account this revenue is in excess of that of the previous year by nearly £1,188,000. If the expanditure, therefore, had only kept stationary there would have been a surplus sufficient to discharge the instalment of debentures falling due; but the gross expenditure of the year amounted to £2,170,973, thus leaving only an available surplus of about £32,000. It is true that the whole of this outlay was not for the service of 1839 only, more than 2200,000 having been devoted to paying the outstanding accounts of privious years. But there are always teracies of this kind left, and last year has doubtless left over this quantity for this year to discharge.

The population of the colony is not yet half a million, and an expenditure of four pounds per head ought to be sufficient to govern us; yet it would really be an economical achievement if any Government would bring the annual outlay down to £2,000,000, and rigorously withstand any excess beyond that stardard. Of course, to draw a hard and fast line anywhere is a purely arbitrary arrange-ment, but it would be adapted to the popular intelligence and the popular memory if such a definite sum were for a time accepted as the

Mr. COBDEN, when he was devoting himself Mr. Conden, when he was devoting himself to the enforcement of economy in the Naval and Military service of the mother country, took a back year as his standard of expenditure, and demanded a return to it. The standard was arbitrary, but it did good service as a reference, and helped to keep the public mind alive to the growth of the annual expenditure. So, in this colony, it might be well if the sum of £2,000,000 could be fixed for a time as the limit of our expenditure, and if it time as the limit of our expenditure, and if it were held to be a credit to any Government to get it down to that point and keep it there.

We must remember, however, that the most prudent and economical Executive is not free deal at its will with the whole of the public xpenditure. If it were possible to begin de novo, with all the light of our present experience, much useful retrenchment might be practised. But, apart from the ramified organisation of the public service, which can only be pruned cautiously and by degrees, there are cartain fixed obligations which cannot now be trifled with. Foremost among these is the interest on the public debt, which runs away with on the public debt, which runs away with very nearly one-quarter of our income. At least it absorbs £150,000. There is no shaking off this liability except by the more laborious process of discharging the principal. In addition to this there are some other special appropriations, most of which are settled by Acts of Parliament, and the total of all these amounts very nearly to £585,000. If we withdraw this amount from the total expenditure, it leaves only £585,000. If we withdraw this amount from the total expenditure, it leaves only three-quarters of it open to the praning

Then we find that for the service of the Then we find that for the service of the Post Office and the Telegraph Department, we pay £166,000. No one likes to reduce any of the advantages that people get from this department. On the contrary, there is a demand for cheaper telegrams, for more frequent delivery of mails, for multiplied post-offices, and for free delivery of multiplied post-offices, and for free delivery of newspapers; so that the attempt to increase the revenue of this department, or to cut down its efficiency, would not be very popular. But in some of the other departments it may be pessible to exercise a little wholesome retrenchment; and a careful scrutiny of them, combined with a transfer to local shoulders of what are properly local burdens, might result in some effective alteration of the figures.

In saying that the revenue of the country is at the rate of £4 per head it of course is not to be understood that the actual taxation is to that amount. All the land revenue, which ing which Mr. Cowper or shorter, from 1856 to 1870. Having passed through these details, which shows how fluctuating, how uncertain, is the tenure of political power, and equally how difficult it is to set aside permanently any able competitor, we may look forward to changes not altogether unlike in the future Parliament.

The principal cause of Mr. Cowper reliaquishment of office was the utter exhaustion of his party, partly by the distribution of his party, partly by the distribution of their support, and purtly by the discontent of the less fortunate. The great difficulty which obstructed Mr. Cowper was that he was obliged, reluctantly, no doubt, to accept men having little weight in the country or for services rendered to individuals by the public departments. Of the revenue received, therefore, one-half comes in voluntarily, the other half involuntarily—in other words, one-half is taken, the other half is given; and though the revenue is at the rate of £4 per head, the compulsory taxation is only at the rate of £2 per head.

Of the taxation proper, the greater proportion is indirect, and is levied through the Custom House. The only direct taxes are the licenses and the stamps, and these amount collectively to a little more than £145,000, or more than one-eighth of the taxation proper. Both these modes of direct taxation, are capable of extension, although they are both disliked. Stamps only touch a portion of the population, and those most actively engaged in commercial operations. The greater portion of the license modes comes from the publicans and is levied. most actively engaged in commercial operations. The greater portion of the license money comes from the publicans, and is levied from them very unequally. There is no precise line drawn between those occupations that ought to be licensed and those that ought hot; but when the present Transauran was last in office, his proposal to extend the system of licenses was scouted, and Parliment wave the preference to ad valorem lisment gave the preference to ad valorem duties. The country is tired now of this last-out of the Customs revenue there is a out of the Customs revenue there is a portion to which teetotallers and antimokers do not contribute. The revenue draws nothing from them on account of spirits, wine, beer, and tobacco, and the receipts from these articles amount to onehalf of the total Customs revenue. The Customs revenue may be roughly said to half of the total Customs revenue. The Customs revenue may be roughly said to be a tax upon eatables, drinkables, and wearables,—the great proportion of it being on drinkables. The only articles of food directly taxed are rice and dried fruits, and both together they do not contribute £20,000 a year. The ad valorem duty falls most on westables. Last year the revenue from this source was about £170,000; and though the tex falls upon many things besides clothing, it touches most articles of attire, and it is the ordy way in which those articles are touched.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL ACT OF THE EARL OF BELMORS,

UNCONSTITUTIONAL ACT OF THE EARL OF BELMORE.

To the Editor of the Heroid.

Sire,—The writ certifying the return of Mr. Cowper for Liverpool Plains appears, by the Gazette, to have been returned on the 10th instant. On the 13th instant, rungs nava after such return, his Excellency the Governor issued a writ for the election of a member for the same electorate in the room of Mr. Cowper, whose seat in the Assembly is stated to have been vacated "by reason of his acceptance of this writ appears to me to be so manifestly illegal, that I feel myself justified in calling public attention to it. The Parliamentary rule is laid down in May, p. 583, in these words:—"where a vacancy has occurred prior to or immediately after the first meeting of a new Parliament, or within fourteen days after the return of the member whose seat is vacated, the writ will not be issued until effect the time limited for receiving election petitions." In pp. 592-593-594 of the same book will be found three instances of the application of this rule. By the 75th section of our Electoral Act "eight weeks after the day of the return of the writ." are allowed for the presentation of an election petition, instead of the fourteen days fixed by the order of the House of Commons, for the like purpose, There is no law or order which expressly probibits in England any more than in this colony, the isste of a new writ during the time within which a petition may be presented. But in practice it is held by the House of Commons, that during that time the new writ cannot be equed. In several in stances has the like rule been applied in our Legislative Assembly. The following are some of them:—

1. On the 7th February, 1855, on the acceptance of effice by Mr. Cowper and his then collesques, in that year, Mr. Burdekin moved the new writs. In every case so moved, except Mr. Arnold's, the old writs had been returned more than cight weeks before the making of the motion. In Mr. Arnold's case, however, but seven weeks and three days had elapsed. I called the atten had expired.

2. On the same 14th February, Mr. Lucas, who had been returned for Hartley as well as for Cauterbury, elected to sit for Har ley—the eight weeks after the ratum for the latter electorate having expired. Mr. Burdekin thereupon moved the issue of a new writ for Canterbury.

Burdekin thereupon moved the issue of a new writ for Canterbury.

3. On the next sitting day, 7th March, 1895, I having myself been elected for the Lachlan as well as for Monare, elected to sit for the Lachlan—the eight weeks after my return for Monare having then expired, Mr. Cowper theneupon moved the issue of a new writ for Monare.

4. Mr. Robertson when first elected for the Clarence publicly sansounced that he would only hold the seat during the eight weeks allowed for the presentation of a petition against his return, as no new election could take place until after that period had elapsed, thus recognising the rule as previously stated and acted on.

election could take place until after that period had elapsed, thus rectgaining the rule as previously stated and acted on.

Lord Belmore, however, has been advised to do what the Assembly has held itself, by common consect, usable to do; nam-ly, to issue a new writ before the expiration of the eight weeks; that is to say, within make mays after the previous return. The 29th section of the Electoral Act undoubtedly gives the Governor the power to issue a writ in the case of a vacancy after a "general election, and before the meeting of Parliament," just in the sams way as it provides that in other cases the Speaker shall issue the writs on a resolution of the Assembly. But if the House itself cannot declare the vacancy and order the new writ within the eight weeks, how can it be held that the Gevernor is at liberty to do so? If he can do so, then, in the case of a general election, he has the power to prevent a petition against any return being successful. To put a case which, it was said, nearly occurred the other day: Suppose that the Returning-Officer for Central Camberland had returned Mr. Campbell instead of Mr. Flood, and that that gentleman had been appointed Colonial Secretary, on the retirement of Mr. Robertson, Lord Belmore might (iff his action in the Liverpool Plains case is correct), by issuing a new writ, have prevented Mr. Flood claiming his seat by petition. This, of course, cannot be correct; and there can be no doubt that a great blunder has been committed in issuing this writ for Liverpool Plains. I presume that this unconstitutional course has been taken on the advice of the Assembly—has been given by a gentleman who is not a responsible Minister, and who is, moreover, a member of the other House of Parliament.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

TO THE BISHOP OF ARMIDALE AND GRAF-ION, AND MEMBERS OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND IN HIS DIOCESE.

(By favour of the Sydney Morning Herald.) (By facour of the Sydney Morning Herald.)

My LORD, AND BROTHER CHURCHWIN, —After a serious consideration of the painful position in which I find myself as a member of the Church of Regland in this colony. I have come to the conviction that it is due to you, as well as myself, thus publicly to state the circumstances which have led to such; asking you, my Lord, to ascertain, as far as it may be in your power, the opinions and feelings of the bulk of those over whom you have so lately been appointed spirinal overseer; and you, my brother Churchmen, acriously to ponder over the following facts, and decide whether it will be your duty to submit to or resist the like innovations when the attempt is made to force then upon you, bearing is mind that, however trivial they may appear at first, they will gradually be added to ill they culminate in the full development of Rittalism.

till they culminate in the full development of Rittalism.

About sightern months ago the pastoral district of Tenterfield and Glen Innes was divided, and a young clergyman just from England was appointed incumbent of Tenterfield; and it was very soon reported he was what is designated a very High Churchman, if not a Ritualist. The following copy of portions of a letter I addressed to him will best explain the commencement of my differences, and the feelings which actuated me,—"Bolivis, May S, 1869. Dear S.r.—I think you will not have frogotten my addressing you after your first Sunday service here, upon the subject of the Communion Serice unless the Holy Sverament was administered, and your carrying such expressed intention into effect upon that ocasion. I then stated it as my conviction 'that in these days of Ritualism, when some of our clergy are exerting themselves to the timest in assimilating our services to those of the Church of Rome, it becomes the duty of every member of our Church to ask for a reason when he observes any change made in the services in his usual place of worship. I therefore imagine you will be but little surpired at my again audiressing you upon the same subject, after the services of Lit Sunday.

You have new twice administered the Holy Sterament at Bolivia; on the first occasion, the ody circumstances I noticed as differing from what I have been accustomed to were the extreme over that not a count, of the determination that not a drop of the consecrated wine should remain, evinced by your rinsing the chalce with unconsecrated wine, and then drinking it. Your posture of advanton was not noticed by me; but Mr. Lee, who, you may recollect, was a domination, was no struck by it that he was under the impression you were set; d with sudden illness, and he whispared to my ron that you had fainted. Last Sunday you ask dine if I could provide you with a small table to serve as an alter; I did so. You then made your server as an adar; I did so. You then made your speparation in a sing you what it was for, you sail was 'a caseoth, "ways wore, but generally mide of silk." However, having carried it with you from lenterfold, I suppase you considered it necessary to we it as you did when placing the bread and wine on the side table bere the commencement of Maning Struce, and necessary again to east that and your au place off before removing the cup and place after the service was over. In you sermon, the subject of which was—In the world ye shall have tribulation," you almied to a case of 'persecution for conscience' sake, as one keewen to us all, having occurred within the last two or three months; you of course alluded to Mr. Mackonochie and his brother litualists. These directly and the Communion ratio of you having removed the Communion table a wooden cross, supplemented by your admissions to a liking for pictures in the church, admining a sensuous service, &c., &c. &c., bring me fortilly to the condition that in heart and will you are a Ritualist.

With reference to the Holy Communion, I will mely say that, judging from the whole of your bearing and act on in the administration of the same, we dire. With reference to your allusion to the fli uslists in your sermon, to say the least of it, I think it was in very bad take. In my house you introduce in a sermon a subject of legitimate debate, knowing that I take a contrary view of it to yourself, knowing that I take a contrary view of it to yourself, knowing that I take a contrary view of it to yourself, who will have the service of the contrary view of it to yourself, who will have been an expected for conscience sake,' whose muchers are so small as not to justify being termed even a 'section of our Church, are, nevertheless, through their weakness and obstinery, causing the course of conduct which, under any circumstances, in God's house must indeed be unscendy. Who are most to bisme? I say those men who are introducing distast ful coverly in the first parts he could be ac to foreno your scruples; at the same time I will not allow make to be treated with contempt in my own brune."

I had no idea, when writing it, that that letter would have gone further than to the gentleman to whom it was addressed, but upon a reiterated request from thin to forward it—as a point of justice to himself—with his reply to the Bishop of Newcastle, I of course did so, and I shall be quite willing to publish his reply to the Bishop of Newcastle, I of course did so, and I shall be quite willing to publish his Lordship's reply to me, either in existing, or any papers he may point out. About a week siter forwarding the letters to the Bishop of Newcastle, I saw with great pleasure and satisfaction the Bishop of Adelaide's Charge to his Cleryy—it was reproduced in the Australian Churchman, of 29th May, and most cleasly did it set forth in plain ourspoken words of truth the dootrine, I—the son of a clergyman—had been taught, and, with God's grace, will hold fast to. It apeaking of Kitusism, Lis Lordship says—"New born zed is not always wise. Then followed the adoption of forms, rules, and manuals of devotion borrowed from Roman sources, and not always free from Romain error. But it was not until the open adoption of corresponding rites and vestments that the great body of Churchmen became awareof the Romanising tendencies of a small but active party in the Church. In my address itself, early with the Australian to shew how the whole movement sprang from and centered in a particular view of the Sherament of the Lord's Supper." A month or so liver a letter appeared in the Herald hinting at the Hisualistic prodivities of you, my Lord, end meet Churchmen the Herald, expressed a devotion to our Church in very general terms—but ge some allusion to the article in the Herali, expressed a devotion to our Church in very general terms—but give no sign as to your views on the spirial subject alluded to.

On Saturday, Octobes 23, you resched Tenterfield, a service was held in the avening by the incumbent especially for the young people prepared for continuition, at which I, my son, and a young friend attended as well as your Loraship. I will here mention the eliterations I noticed in the church since the arrival of the present incumbent. First, on the arch of the chancel appears, in large characters, the invocation, "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty." The absence of the Communion ratis then struck me; then the cross on or at the back of the after, as the incumbent calls it; over the cross, "This is my body—this is my blood;" over the vestry door, "Let your priests be clothed with righteounness!" There was a special idea raised by these selected passages, and which was unmistakably continued by an assertion made during the address in these words:—"It is an awful thing to think of, but really true, that the priest offers the body and blood of our Lord Jesus Christ as they were offered for us on Calvary." I would here mention that some short time prior to this I was conversing with the incumbent on the subject of the Sacrament, and said I thought Hooker ought to be an admitted authority; he replied, Hooker was very well on the whole, but on the subject of the Rucharist he did not agree with him; I then pointed out a chapter in "Goalburn on the Communion," in which the author shows how wrong the idea is of non-communicants reasning in church during the celebration; he (the incumben') had preached upon this subject in Tenterfield church, and upon one, if not more occasi ms, had induced the congregation to remain, and has told me he looked upon it as the duty of all ter remain; he acknowledged Goulburn to be a very nice writer, but didn't agree with him of that point. I then asked him to give me the name of some one whom he acknowledged to be an a Sin.—The letter of Mr. Bundook upon "Horses for Lora" is worthy of gree attention. I now wish to refus more particularly to the concluding paragraph of his letter, wherein he is good enough to remark upon my plan of a tax (upon horses), which he thus decaybes—"Although at 1 am, Sir, yours truly,

F. R. L. ROSSI.

To the Editor of the Herald

Sin,—Will you allow me to point out the following errors of the Press, in my paper on the Permissive Bill, which you were good enough to publish in your issue of to-day (Friday).

In section 6, instead of "their scope of personal liberty," read, "their sense of personal liberty," In the same aspition, instead of "no more of that source of injustice," read "none of that sort of injustice," In section 8, instead of "trust to put out the fire," read "rush to put out the fire," In section 9, instead of "it would be swept away as swiftly as a colarect," read "it would be swept away as swiftly as a colarect, "read "it would be swept away as wiftly as a colarect," read "it would be swept away as wiftly as a colarect," read "it would be swept away as wiftly as a colarect," read "it would be swept away as wiftly as a colarect," read "it would be swept away as wiftly as a colarect," read "it would be swept away as wiftly as a colarect, "read "it would be swept away as wiftly as a colarect," read "it would be swept away as wiftly as a colarect, and in section 11, last line, in-stead of "degraded in life," read "degraded for life." Several smaller subgrating, which here and there obscure the meaning of a clause, or spoll the rhythm of a sections. the meaning of a clause, or spoil the rhythm of a sentence I must hope were corrected by the readers of the paper. I am, Sir, yours truly, Newington, January 14.

Sin,—I would beg through the medium of your powerful paper to bring before the municipal authorities the great omission that at present exists in our city, and trust that they will immediately take steps to have the same restified. I allude to the want of urinals, which is fell by every person whose daily avocations necessitate their being about tewn all day. In Melbourne, the great-critoria, avery available piece of ground throughout the city is occupied by such accommedation, here troughs, and drinking fountains; and the authorities have them cleaned out weekly. In the absence of other places to record to, public-houses have to be called into requisition, and it is not exactly "the thing" for an employee to be seen by his employer coming out of a public-house.

Hoping this grievous evil will speedily be attended to, I am, Sir,

THE WATER SUPPLY.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

To the Editor of the Heraid.

Sin,—Your issue of the 11th instant contains a letter from a resident at Reddern, complaining of the defactive water supply. If all the letters which might be written on this subject were printed, the columns of the Meraid would not suffice for the purpose. The writer of the letter in question says—"It is evident that the present source of our water supply is either quite inadequate to meet the wants of this community, even auring such an exceptional season as the present, or the arrangements for distributing the water are saily defective." I are nonlineed that the latter is the real cause of the suil complained of. On several occasional lately I have observed that the flow of water supplying the house in which I live has ceased suddenly, and on others has an suddenly returned.

I am aware that it has been attempted to explain this by saying that it was due to the watering of the streets. As a proof that this is not the fact, I may mention that on the versing of the 11th, soon after 18 p.m., the water rushed suddenly and with great force all day, from 5 a.m., so that advantage might be taken of the first if we, but without success, till the time mentioned, although the day was distressingly hot. The same has hap cand on several observed which I complain is due to nothing deep but stupid man-greened.

The water supply is ample—so much so, that the quantity which runs to waste daily at B tany would suffice to make up the deficiency of which we complain. SHOOTING WITH INTENT, AT SOUTH CREEK.

[FROM OUR WINDSON CORMESVONDENT]

LAIR ON Therefore verning a man, realled William Rose, was shot by a farmer named James Smith, at South Creek, about seven miles from Windson. It appears that Smith had been to Windson, and while there had indulged rather freely in liquor. He returned home late, kteed up a row at the tea-table about his wife, who was absent, and of whom he is said to be jealous, and flung a tumbler at his young daughter. Rose, who was present, remonstrated with Smith, when the latter challenged Rose to fight. This Rose refused to do, when Smith struck him with his flat several times, and then said, "You ——. If you will not fight I will shoot you." Upon this, Smith went into the hitchen, took cown his double-burrelled gam, brought it out, deliberately took aim, and fired. The charge, which was of shot, entered the thick part of Rose's left for fire the second barrel, but citize it was not locatesed. The import markets have been so staguant throughout the week, that it is difficult to give quotations other than those ruling at the close of the year. This dulness is common to all branches of trade, but may speedily disappear if advices by the incoming mail are satisfactory. This rise is due to the reduced state of stocks here, and the fact that the South Australian farmers are holding their new wheat.
None of the new crop from our Western districts has yet reached this market. Coffee is dull of sale. Agents of Melbourne holders supply Plantation at 94d. There has been very little demand for candles; best brands are worth about 101d. In Dundee goods the only articles mentioned have been cornsacks, which are pretty firm at 11s. 6d, to 11s. 9d. for parcels. There is a firm market for good samples of fish, except 1-lb. salmon, which are offering at a decline. Quarter sardines are held for 6s. Teas are very dull; the attempt to sell a cargo by auction on Wednesday showed that the trade were unwilling to pay importers' valuations. Some damaged parcels of congous and scented teas ex Marquis of Argyle realised fair prices. The future of the market depends very much on the character of advices from Tha laims Shrvart in America.—She stude everybody has a "atore," or associates with those who have, and she concludes that wealth is the only standard of respectability in the States, but to wealth merely she never brings herself to pay any respect, much less petty allegiance. Even taking wealth at the standard, she does not except from her difficulties, for she cannot rid herself or her notions of the manners peculiar to "gentlemen." She lately saked one lady at an intelligence office whether she was a "first-cleas family," and gave warning to another on the ground that her master was not a gentleman; her previous employer was a gentleman, insamuch as he "had three kinds of wine on his table, and swore." In fact, the mild-mannered kindly American house-holder, who wears old clothes, runs errands for his wife and daughters, never rings the bell, and hates to give trouble, and does not mind blacking his boots on a pinch, and washes down his meals with ice water, and speaks to Bridget as if he and she had gone to school together, is a being whom she never thoroughly understands, and is constantly disposed to regard as an impostor—a person living in a style he has no right to, and surrounded by luxuries he does not know how to enjoy.

The Grant Pyrasim.—Sir Hebry Jamas says the mean length of the sides of the great Pyramid of Egyptia cobies. Sir Henry observes: "The consummate ability of the anoient Egyptian architects has been a theme of admirstion to every intelligent student of their great mechanical skill and ingenity. Carefully concealed in the centre of this vast pile, King Cheops hopad that his body would have been preserved undisturbed through long succeeding ages, as indeed it was for 2960 years. PROGRESS.

PROGRESS.

INERS is no word so commonly in the mouth of size class of necker politicists as progress. When the profession of the dyn, in a more doubtful question. It was the distinguish between the profession of the dyn, in a more doubtful question. The old almorest thinker of the later of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one of the most marked characterises the growth of one principles of the control of the growth of one principles of the control of the growth of one principles of the control of the growth of one principles of the control of the growth of one of the principles of the growth of one of the growth of

is a constant to the sum of a series of political thermometer which will above at a glance the warmth of any man's principles, and give what rillemen call his "figure of meriti."

The popularity of this mode of deciding all political questions is not more than is due to its casy and simple-minded nature. We are all going down hill, and the only question is not more than is due to its casy and simple-minded nature. We are all going down hill, and the only question is not more than is due to its casy and simple-minded nature. We are all going down hill, and the only question is who will be first at the bottom. The argument, however, is not vititated by the occasional absurdity of its application. No one can doubt that there are certain profound political and social changegoing forward to which no midvidual can oppose himself with much hope of accesses. The more tuncopporation of the concurred modern to make the more time by the consideration from the truth. He wishes to believe, though it must be a difficult task, that from is really the leading city of Europe, if regarded impartially by a very penetrating observer; and that though certain little weaknesses strike the eye of a casal visitor, it has made all continued to the correct of the continued to the correct of the correct worse; that all the changes on which we pride ourselves most are really symptoms of decay; and that to prove that any belief or institution is destined to give way be fore an irresistible change is therefore to prove, too its inferiority, but its superiority, to the existing state of things. As a matter of fact, however, this cheerful creed, though it may be implicitly held by some persons, is so far discredited that it cannot be openly put forward. Most people are optimists with more or less reservation, and consider that to prove that anything will succeed in the long run is equivalent to proving that it is, on the whole, an improvement. It might possibly be argued that this is merely a necessary concession to our weekness, and not to truth; that we are forced to believe that we are improving, not from the force of evidence, but because it would otherwise be impossible to look upon life with any complexency. Mr. Cartyle from mild providence, but because it would otherwise be impossible to look upon life with any complexency. Mr. Cartyle from mong us. Yet even he keeps an eye upon some small gleam of distant hope, and believes that after the descent of Niagara and one general smash we shall somehow or other manage to put ourselves together again, and emerge at a distant period into a smoother water, with real kings of men enforcing order and suppressing the blatant babblements of the distracted populace. Chaces may be coming, but after chaos will not the disturbed elements again erystallise into shape? Carlyles, however, is a dialect which has not yet become popular; and the chief reason that it has not much chance of peoplarity is the discordance of this tone of universal complaints with the popular need of curfort and the profound popular conviction that things improve slowly, but surely, with many periods of falling back, compensated on the whole by longer periods of more decisive improvement. Lord Macaulay's p hitienl philosophy was not very deep part of the increasated on the whole, this cheerful view of Games in the fight planes and section of the fight planes are the control of the fight planes and the control of the fight planes are the

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

BOROUGH OF RANDWICK.

RANDWICK WARD:

FIRCTORS.—It is my intention to offer myself as a Candidate to fill the vacancy of Adderman in your ward.

I am an old resident in the borough, and should you think well to support my election and return me, I shall endeavour to serve you faithfully.

If returned I shall strongly advocate a revaluation of properly subject to assessment, as all the waste lands or properly. House properly is also assessed much too high the assessment being quite equal to first-class city properly, which is simply absurd; and I will at all times, without respect to any party, advocate equal distribution of the rates of the borough.

It shall use every exertion to have the foll-bar ab-lished, as it has passed into the hands of this borough and the City Corporation. It is most unjust to demand toll when the mejority pay both suburban and city rates.

I shall take an opportunity of meeting you (the electors) on days to be named, at the Couch and Harses, and Half-way House.

WELLINGTON DISTRICT. WEST BOGAN, Nos. 2 and 3. Estimated capability, 4000 Head CATTLE.

ARRISON and JONES have been intructed by Joseph Aarons, Esq. to sell by public auction, at their Rosma, Bell's-chambers, Pittstreet, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 19th January, 1870, at 12 o'clock.
Those choice blocks of cattle country,
WEST BOGAN, Nos. 2 and 2, having 10 miles frontage to the BOGAN RIVER, by 15 miles back, and embracing an areas of some 96,000 acres of the richest fattening country, consisting of fine open unfullating forest, with large quantities of salt bush, wild oats, and fattening herbage. This station adjoins those of Messre. Richardson.

station adjoins those of Messrs. Richardson, Brothers, and John Brown. With the runs will be sold 1800 head CATTLE, more or less, being a quiet, well-bred herd, the principal part being fat.

The IMPROVEMENTS are most elaborate. There is about 15 miles of fencing completed, 20-acre cultivation peddock; tailing paddock, 20 acres; cottage, mon's huts, out-offices, stock and drafting yards, &c., &c.

The WATER is thoroughly permanent, one large dam erected at the lower end of the run throws the water back about 4 miles, another on the upper part of the run backs the water up about 2 miles, which is from 12 to 16 feet deep; there are also waterholes all over the run.

The innumerable advantages of this station are so manifest that we retrain from adding any remarks of our own, except that those looking out for really good, safe, and remunerative eatile property should give this their attention, as it presents a chance very soldom met with in New South Wales.

Full particulars may be obtained from HARRISON and JONES, Sydney.

BLIGH DISTRICT. QUILBONE STATION. Estimated capability, 8000 SHEEP.

ABRISON and JONES have received in-structions from Jereph Asrons, Esq., to sell by public suction, at their Rooms, Bell's-chambers, Pitt-street, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 19th January, 1870, at 12 o'clock, t 12 o'clock, That unsurpassed and snug little property known as QUILBONE, situated in the Bligh district, and having a frontage of 7 miles to the Marthaguy Greek, and surrounded by Mesers. Dargin's and Smith's celebrated Moie stations, and Mesers. Rossiter and Knapp's runs. With this station will be sold 5000 superior mixed SHEEP.

The COUNTRY consists of open forest, large plains, and eablists a luxuriant growth of all descriptions of fattening herbage, myall and salt bush being in superabundance; this country was plenifully watered during the whole of the late drought. There is a large dam on the lower end, besides numerous waterholes.

The IMPROVEMENTS are very complete, the fencing being finished on the back and lower site; counfortable cottage, 5 rooms, verandah, huts, sheep-yards, stock-yards, milking-yards, &c. &c.

To those who know this beautiful district, which from the richness of its pasture lands might well be called the pick of the colony, if will be uselens to make any further remark here, but to those who have never gone over this part, we might confidently say that it will be difficult to find a better property for its size than Quibone.

FOR UNRESE VED SALE, BY ORDER OF THE MORTGAGEES.

Full particulars in future advertisements, or upon cation to HARRISON and JONES, Sydney. CHOICE FATTRNING STATION, SPRING GROVE, On the BALLOON RIVER.

FOR POSITIVE SALE,

ANT and SIMPSON have received instructions from Philip Devine, Eq., to sell by anction, on TURSDAY, the 18th January, 1870, at 19 o'clock, at their Rooms, No. 271, George-atreet, The abovenamed compact pastoral property, Spring Grove, well grassed and watered, with all the necessary improvements for working the station, Which consists of manager's four-roomed estage, shingled roof, with kitchen, store-room, and out-houses, a paddock of 160 acres, securely fenced; also large stock yard, including sprying bail, &c.

The country consists of plains with clumps of myall, and is unsurpassed for its fattening propensities; and we would call attention to the fact that it commands the Sydney market, and that no later than September last we sold cattle from the above ristion that realised as much as £6 12s per head. This fact alone should be an inducement to intending purchasers to inspect this really first-class station.

Any further particulars can be obtained on application at he Rooms, 271, George-street. UNAVOIDABLY POSTPONED TILL THE 27TH. VALUABLE FATTENING STATION.

FOR POSITIVE AND UNRESERVED SALE.

That choice Sheep-station, known as BAAN BAA SOUTH, adjoining those celebrated stations, "Melville Plains" and "Hensiend," situated on the Namot River, distant only about 20 miles from Bogabri.

This first-lense property has a frontage of 8 miles to the Namot, by a depth of about 3\cdot miles; a large portion is fine dry open country timbered with myall, and is well grassed. With the station will be sold the following sheep, the amgree; and two grass pandouse, or the sespectively.

The out-stations are five in number, with huts and yards, the station being in perfect working order.
